Toll of Great Blast at Elwood Ordnance Plant Placed at 51

Cause of Explosion Is Undetermined; Rain Prevents Digging

Joliet, Ill., June 6.—(AP)—Munitions for America's fighters rolled off the Elwood ordnance plant lines in volume today while Army officials attempted to identify all the 51 persons dead or missing in an explosion.

The thunderous blast destroyed a shipping building in the shell loading plant, but halted production in only one of the 12 units in the vast works. The other loading lines calmly continued on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

Army officers said the demolished structure could be replaced with less trouble than other ordnance buildings and that the group of which it was a part would be back in production "very shortly."

While the plant staff awaited the arrival today of an Army board of inquiry from Washington, Captain David Tunstall, press relations officer, said there was no evidence of sabotage. The cause of the disaster was unknown, he said, and probably would not be determined before debris is cleared away.

The blast, which shook northeastern Illinois with earthquake force felt 100 miles away, occurred early yesterday while 68 men were in the shipping building. It was the first serious accident at the $30,000,000 works.

Many Blown to Pieces

While bomb and shell production continued elsewhere over the 15,000-acre layout, Army officials toiled at the grim business of identifying victims, many of them literally blown to pieces.

The count so far showed 22 persons were known to be dead and of these 19 had been identified. The other three were listed on a roster of 32 described as missing. Forty-one injury cases were treated.

The demolished building was about 275 by 75 feet and was used for packing and placing completed shells on freight cars. Shells are loaded in other sections of the works.

The explosion formed a deep crater which became filled with rain water and mud last night and prevented digging for bodies. Army officers feared nearly all the missing were buried in the wreckage of the building.

Check Workers' Homes

Fingerprint experts were summoned to help identify bodies shattered most severely. Meanwhile, two squads of men called at homes of those listed as missing to see whether they might not have reported for work Thursday night. One of those so fortunate had taken off that night to attend a high school commencement.

Because the plant's buildings are scattered over miles of flat prairie the explosion was localized to this single structure although the force was so great that windows were shattered in buildings miles away.

The largest blast in the nation since the start of the war took 52 lives on Sept. 12, 1940, at the Dover, N. J., plant of the Hercules Powder Company.

Pay Increase for U. S. Soldiers and Sailors Assured

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—Army buck privates and navy apprentice seamen had assurance today that their June pay would be increased at least to $46 and there were strong indications that the amount might be boosted to $50 before the disputed military salary adjustment bill becomes law.

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) said he would ask the senate Monday to reject a compromise reached yesterday by senate and house conferees on the $46 and return the measure to conference with instructions to the senate group to accept the $50 figure twice approved by overwhelming house votes.

Similarly, Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) author of the $50 amendment, predicted that the house would refuse to agree to the lower figure.

"We are not going to agree to any conference report reducing the base pay under $50 a month," Rankin told reporters. "The senate conferees might as well stop trying to chisel it down."

Equalizes Pay

In passing the bill originally, the senate voted to increase to $42 the present pay of army privates, which runs $21 for the first four months and then is advanced to $30. The bill equalized pay for army, navy, marine and coast guard personnel, eliminating some special navy classifications and abolishing the automatic annual increase in an army private's pay.

Senate and house conferees agreed yesterday to compromise their differences by placing the minimum pay at $46 and making any increase retroactive as of June 1. They agreed also that first class privates and corresponding naval ratings should receive $52 a month, compared with the $48 previously fixed by the senate and $52 voted by the house.

Ordnance Workers Picnic Enjoyed by Thousand People

About 1,000 field workers and members of their families of the Green River ordnance plant enjoyed a picnic outing at Lowell park Thursday afternoon and evening. A complete program of contests and entertainment features occupied the early hours, after which a sumptuous southern barbeque lunch was served, consisting of barbecue sandwiches, baked beans, potato salad with milk and soft drinks.

The excavation crew swamped the area team in a soft ball game by a score of 14 to 0, the game going three innings; L. Pye on the mound for the winners pitched one hit ball for three innings and struck out seven batters. Walters did the catching. John Marizeurki and Ed Esch twirled for the losers, John Ferrom receiving. Pye hit a circuit blow with two on base in the second and Jim Barnabei homered in the third with bases unoccupied.

Quoits Contest

On the horse shoe pitching courts Ernest Polka of the excavation crew and Ivan Smith won honors. Polka, a World War veteran, was a member of a former Davenport, Iowa, championship team. Guy Jensen, whose father Henry Jensen is line superintendent at the plant, won the foot race for 12 year old boys. Albert Newcomer won the spring event for eight year old boys. Patty Ann Foote won the little girls' foot race.

Four stenographers were entered in the three-legged race, Edith Lamkin and Rose Sterling of the time department being the winners. The last race of the evening, a 200 yard dash was won by Sam Chriss, Robert McConnell, second; Henry Jensen, third and Melvin Garman, fourth. Prizes were awarded to the winners of all the sports events.

Park employes pronounce the affair one of the finest ever held in the park.

John Bull's Desert Force Winning Tank Battle in No. Africa

Press Initiative in Libya; RAF Bombers Continue Raids

By The Associated Press

Britain's desert armies were reported to have won armored superiority in the 12-day-old battle of North Africa today as tank-led British infantry, striking from three sides, pounded the Germans back toward a gap in the main British defense line.

Frontline dispatches said nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had already lost 340 tanks, or about half his armored force.

British headquarters said British troops launched an offensive Thursday night west of Knightsbridge, 15 miles southwest of Tobruk, and sustained the attack successfully throughout yesterday.

Military observers said the situation was rapidly boiling toward a showdown, with Rommel's main forces hard pressed in the bloody "Devil's Cauldron" sector east of the gap which his armored columns slashed through the British minefields between Ain el Gazala and Bir Hacheim.

Caught behind this 50-mile line, Rommel was said to be counting on using the gap as an escape hatch in the event he is forced to retreat westward once more.

British Press Drive

The British said Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie, British field commander, was pressing the initiative after driving the axis out of Tamar, west of Knightsbridge.

Heavy British artillery fire from the south and north hampered axis attempts to organize a counterattack, while British columns which thrust far to the axis rear attacked German supply lines bringing vital fuel to Rommel's mechanized forces.

An Italian communique acknowledged that the British were on the offensive, declaring that British armored attacks had been repulsed. The German high command said briefly that axis forces had gone over to the counterattack.

Other European war developments.

On Other War Fronts

Air Warfare — British night raiders attacked Naples, Italy, setting big fires, and renewed the great-city smashing assault on war foundries in the German Ruhr valley.

About 300 planes were said to have taken part in the Ruhr raids, with 13 RAF aircraft listed as missing.

London sources said the RAF had thrown more than 3,000 bombers against Germany in the week ended last night, losing a total of

Turning Point in War by Fall, Seen

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—Military experts reviewing six months of global war concluded today that axis striking power had been considerably blunted since the United States plunged into conflict December 7 but warned that the great battles for final, overwhelming victory are yet to be fought.

Virtually all the things that have been done to date—conversion of the nation to a war economy, creation of the huge and growing army, extension of supply lines to all parts of the world—were described as constituting only the prelude to the grand offensives which alone could bring triumph.

How soon and effectively these offensives may be undertaken, it was said, depends partly on the speed of allied preparations and partly on enemy counter-measures in the present main theaters of conflict.

In the opinion of some well-informed authorities, however, prospects are that a definite turning

Says Youth Under 19 Shouldn't Play in Rugged Sports

Boston, June 6—(AP)—Dr. John D. Ellis, Chicago surgeon, said today youths under 19 should not be allowed to participate in rugged, competitive sports because of possible injury to their still-developing spines.

"Change in the shape of the bodies of the vertebrae occurs in young people from over-exercise and competitive sports", he told the American Association for the Surgery of Trauma in a prepared address.

"This is particularly true in such sports as diving, football, and sometimes baseball, which cause powerful flexion and extension of the spine, and these diseases lead to a deformity of the back called 'adolescent angulation' or 'apprentice angulation'."

Common on Farms

He said the name "apprentice angulation" was derived from the fact that youngsters employed as apprentices in certain types of work sometimes suffered the spinal injury, and he declared it was common among boys who worked on farms.

"It is entirely wrong and harmful for children of 13 and 14 to be taking part in rugged sports on a competitive basis", he said. "They should not be allowed to participate until they are 19 or 20.

"Irreparable damage can be done by violent exercise involving powerful twisting of the spine in adolescence before the vertebrae are completely formed".

Dr. Ellis said the condition of "adolescent angulation" results in a stooping of the body, and he declared that treatment of the injury requires as painstaking care as does treatment of a fractured bone.

Warden Haynes of Iowa State Prison Is Dead

Fort Madison, Ia., June 6—(AP)—Col. Glenn C. Haynes, 66, Iowa state penitentiary warden since 1933, died at his home here today after several weeks illness of heart disease.

Soldier, hero, politician, state official and good roads leader—Haynes left his mark on many fields of Iowa life before taking his post here, in which he became widely-known in penal circles for his prison improvements, especially in the development of an extensive athletic program.

Serving with the famed Rainbow division in the World war, Haynes won the Distinguished Service Cross for bravery under fire and also the Croix de Guerre of France.

As secretary for eight years of the Iowa Good Roads Association, he received a major share of the credit for "taking Iowa out of the mud" and lacing the state with paved highways. He was state auditor twice, ran unsuccessfully for governor and senator. He was a past Iowa Commander of the American Legion.

Doolittle Did Things in Big Way as a Boy

Kirkland, Wash., June 6.—(AP)—Even as a boy, Jimmy Doolittle did things in a big way.

J. M. Galvin recalls the hero of the Tokyo bombing as the tousel-headed youngster who sold newspapers on the streets of Nome, Alaska in 1907.

Newspapers brought by steamers from the United States were much in demand—and Jimmy, says Galvin, charged $1 a copy.

Fly Your Flag

By proclamation of Governor Dwight H. Green and Mayor Wm. V. Slothower the period from June 7 to June 14 inclusive is "Dedication to Victory Week" in Illinois.

Every citizen of Dixonland is urged to fly the American flag during the entire period of "Dedication to Victory Week". The nation's colors should be flown from all public and other buildings during that time.

Admiral Nimitz, U. S. N. Reports Enemy Appears in Flight

Presages Great Victory For U. S. Fleet in Far Pacific Warfare

Honolulu, June 6 — (AP) — Crushing defeat of a big Japanese fleet which attempted to seize Midway Island in a desperate bid for control of the mid-Pacific grew in proportions today as the United States pressed home new attacks on an enemy which appeared to be limping away.

Possibly presaging a victory even greater than that of the Coral Sea, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said Japanese aircraft carriers, battleships, cruisers and transports were dealt damaging blows by the alert and fully prepared Midway defenders.

"While it is too early to claim a major Japanese disaster, it may be conservatively stated that United States control remains firm in the Midway area", the Pacific fleet's commander-in-chief announced last night.

"The enemy appears to be withdrawing, but we are continuing the battle".

No actual sinkings were listed in the cryptic accounts of the battle which the Japanese opened with carrier-based planes Thursday after delivering a possible feinting attack on Dutch Harbor, Alaska, with bombers on Wednesday. But Admiral Nimitz said a Japanese aircraft carrier hit by Midway's aerial defenders in the first stages of the fighting later was struck by three torpedoes fired by a submarine.

Damage Appears Heavy

"As more reports come in", he said, "it appears that the enemy damage is very heavy, indeed, involving several ships in each of the carrier, battleship, cruiser and transport classes".

It was the first mention made of transports, lending support to the belief that the huge Japanese force, risking much in an assault so far removed from its home bases, had as its goal the actual conquest of Midway, 1,149 miles northwest of Hawaii.

In the desperation of impending defeat, the Japanese were reported by Admiral Nimitz to have machine-gunned United States fliers forced to bail out in parachutes during dogfights. Americans adrift in rubber boats were believed to have suffered similar treatment.

The size and nature of the United States forces were wrapped largely in military secrecy beyond the admiral's statement that "the brunt of the defense to date has fallen upon aviation personnel, in which the army, navy, and marine corps all were represented".

Surprise in Reverse

But if Japan hoped to catch by surprise the Midway defenders who have beaten off five weaker assaults, dating back to Dec. 7, the surprise worked in reverse. Swiftly the preparations for just such a major blow, carrying with it a threat to Hawaii and even the United States mainland, have gone forward in the few months since the war opened. But they have been so exhaustive that Admiral Nimitz, on returning a month ago from a visit to Midway, was able to voice praise for the effective coordination he had witnessed there.

He said the Midway fliers in the present battle "have added another shining page to their record of achievements" and "on every occasion when we have met the enemy our officers and men have been superlative in their offensive spirit".

The communique, second on the battle issued by the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet read:

Text of Communique

"The Japanese have not followed up their initial air attack on Midway Island except for a few ineffectual shots from a submarine during last night.

"As more reports come in, it appears that the enemy damage is very heavy, indeed, involving several ships in each of the carrier, battleship, cruiser, and transport classes. This damage is far out of proportion to that which we have received.

"The brunt of the defense to date has fallen upon aviation personnel, in which the army, navy and marine corps all were represented. They have added another shining page to their record of achievements.

"One carrier, already damaged by air attack, was hit by three torpedoes fired by a submarine.

"On every occasion when we have met the enemy, our officers and men have been superlative in

Car Requisitioning This Year Unlikely Auto Industry Told

But Tire Restrictions May Immobilize Two to Three Millions

Detroit, June 6.—Governmental requisitioning of privately-owned passenger automobiles is not in prospect for the current year at least, according to private information reaching automotive industry authorities here..

The immobilization of from two to three million such vehicles through restrictions on excess tire ownership, on the other hand, is wholly within the possibilities of the coming six months. An order banning the ownership of more than five times by any one person or family would bring this about, it has been estimated, without imposing any great hardship on the families accustomed to the use of two or more vehicles.

One of the anomalies of the present situation affecting the motoring public is that despite the lack of production, the relatively small stock of new cars available and the rationing program, there is no shortage of automobiles or transportation at the moment.

Few Calls for Cars

Undoubtedly without the restrictions on new car sales and the threat of fuel rationing to solve tires there would be a demand far in excess of the supply. It cannot be said, however, that there would be actual need in like volume.

Besides the approximately 400,000 unsold 1942 models produced prior to last February 10 there are many thousands of second hand vehicles in dealers' possession upon which there are no sales restrictions. Yet they are attracting fewer buyers than most trade experts expected when restrictions on new car assemblies first were proposed.

Most, if not all, of these vehicles may be expected to be absorbed before requisitioning of privately-owned cars becomes imminent, the industry experts assert.

While many of the automobile company executives last December predicted a serious shortage of passenger vehicles during 1942 most of them now agree that with careful use and the elimination of non-essential operation the cars now privately held plus those in dealers' hands can be made to last not only through 1943 but 1944 as well.

Australian Freighter Sunk off South Wales

Melbourne, June 6.—(AP)—Another Australian merchant ship has been sunk by a Japanese submarine off the coast of New South Wales but survivors said they believed the undersea raider was sunk by an allied plane only a few minutes after their vessel went down.

(Sinking of two Japanese submarines and probably a third off the east coast of Australia was reported in an allied communique yesterday. It was not immediately clear whether the Melbourne dispatch referred to these or to still another submarine.)

Clinging to the roof of the deckhouse which was blown clear by the blast, survivors saw an allied plane swoop within 20 feet of the water and release three bombs, the last of which exploded at the spot where they believed the submarine was cruising just beneath the surface.

The War Today!

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst
(Telegraph Special Service)

As Uncle Sam reaches the half-year mark of his participation in the "War for Survival" he has the satisfaction of knowing that he and his allies are on their way to a victory from which they needn't be diverted except by their own shortcomings.

Now I suppose that such an optimistic outlook will evoke protests from those who, while feeling that we shall win ultimately, believe that the general public should be led to view the situation as through a glass darkly. The idea is that the public will work harder if it believes we are getting a beating.

Maybe so, but this column feels that the man in the street thinks soundly enough and that best results are obtained by giving him the facts. And one fact is that we are getting ahead with our job of beating the axis.

That doesn't mean we're out of the woods and romping home to victory. On the contrary we are on the verge of the bloodiest fighting of the whole war. We are about to measure arms with Hitler in a decisive battle which may open any day.

There are frightful dangers yet to be surmounted, and if we don't intensify our effort greatly—if we slacken the least bit—we may be beaten. But we definitely can win if we go all-out.

Uncle Sam's greatest individual achievement probably lies in production, that is, in starting from scratch and in six months making such great strides that on May 19 Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, was able to announce that the United Nations' war production was "greater than the axis' in every category." That isn't to say we have caught up with the axis nations, because they are profiting by years of intensive effort. It does mean that we now are set to overtake them—if we strain every nerve.

That is of vast importance because, as this column has so often insisted, this is a war of resources, of which production and transportation are an integral part. Soldiers alone cannot win this

Federal Sales Tax Only Way to Raise Treasury's Demands

House Committee Warns Morgenthau His Goal Can't Be Reached

Washington, June 6—(AP)—The house ways and means committee was reported today to have put the administration on notice formally that its tax goal of $8,700,000,000 could not be achieved without a sales tax.

Informed sources said that Chairman Doughton (D-NC) and other high-ranking committeemen had told Secretary Morgenthau that they couid not write tnat big a bill without overriding Morgenthau's opposition to some form of consumption tax.

Faced with that attitude by the committee, Morgenthau promised to make a written statement on the situation soon.

The committee thus far has proposed to raise only about $5,500,000,000, but has not started consideration of treasury recommendations that another $1,340,000,000 be raised by increased excise taxes—the last big item in Morgenthau's March 3 suggestions.

Another Month of Work

Although the committee has been working more than three months, many members predicted that it would be still another month before a bill is presented

Pictures Reveal Cologne Damages

London, June 6.—(AP)—British bombers devastated more than 5,000 acres of Cologne in the first of the RAF's 1,000-bomber raids this week on the Ruhr and Rhineland, the Air Ministry said today.

Railway workshops in Nippes, suburb of the big war industry town, were hit hard, photographs of the attack showed.

An air ministry source declared that "the greater part of the old town of Cologne is finished."

(Cologne newspapers reaching Bern yesterday said the old Rhineland city, as its people had known it, was "lost forever" and described a scene of desolation with some sections still burning and "whole quarters of the town empty.")

Among the big factories smashed by high explosives and burned out by spreading flames, the Air Ministry source said, were the vast Vulcan works, the Rheinfelz plant and K. G. Mauser, pro-

MacArthur's Bombers Raid Rabaul Twice

Allied Headquarters, Australia, June 6. — (AP) — Warehouses, docks and a coaling jetty at Japanese-occupied Rabaul, New Britain, were bombed again last night by allied warplanes, General MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

The commander in chief of allied forces in the southwest Pacific also announced he had named Lieut. Col. Carlos P. Romula, formerly connected with the Philippines Herald at Manila, as his aide-de-camp.

Colonel Romula was awarded a $500 Pulitzer prize last month for distinguished correspondence in his observations and forecasts in 1941 on the Pacific situation.

Moscow News Thinks New Front is Coming

Kuibyshev, Russia, June 6 — (AP)—The big-scale British attacks on the Ruhr and Rhineland this week mark the start of a huge scale British and American offensive on Germany which will open an actual western front, the leading article in the Moscow News said today.

The newspaper, published here, said the attacks presaged "big battles—not only air battles — in which the initiative undoubtedly also will be held firmly by the allies".

News Reporters for this Paper Will Carry Rifles as Well as Copy Paper

New York, June 6—(AP)—They have usual pencils and copy paper, this hardy band of news reporters about to cover front-line fighting on the world's battlegrounds, but they also have something else—rifles.

When the staff correspondents for "Yank," official army newspaper which makes its bow June 13, start scouring the foxholes and trenches for stories, they'll trade shots with the enemy, if they have to.

Enlisted men with newspaper experience, they're ready to go wherever the bullets may fly . . . in China, Alaska, Australia, Iceland, Ireland, Panama, Europe.

"Yank" will be cast in the pattern of "The Stars and Stripes," the enlisted men's newspaper published in Paris during the last World war, and will be by, of and for enlisted men.

It is not interested in officers, not even generals. In fact its managing editor said today it might even take a few friendly jabs at the brass hats. The editor, private William H. Richardson, 23, former Raleigh, N. C., newspaperman, said "military rank is forgotten. We've only got one rule —to try to print exactly what the enlisted men want to read at the front."

Predicts Local Daily Newspaper to Assume Position of More Importance

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The newspaper will assume a position of growing importance in meeting a needed change in advertising and selling methods to fit them into a world vastly altered by war time, William H. Howard, executive vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., said at a convention of National Federation of Sales Executives.

The need is for sharper, briefer messages in advertising to get the sales story across to people who now have less time than ever before for details.

Howard said changes in daily living would affect a wide variety of articles and predicted that a year from now people would be doing without things "that we never dreamed we would have to do without."

The local daily newspaper will assume growing importance in the scheme of things, Howard said, because people will confine their purchases to their own towns. He predicted greater reading of newspapers and magazines and more interest in home decoration.

Building Improvements

SMALL HOMES • STORES • APARTMENTS • MODERNIZATION

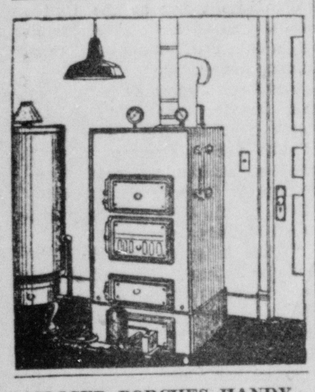
by PAUL T. HAAGEN, A.I.A.

HEATING PLANT NEEDS OUTLETS

Boiler Room Should Have Electric Facilities

Electricity has a prominent place in any modern heating system regardless of the fuel used. Oil burners, automatic coal stokers require electrical connections. Thermostatic control devices and warm air circulating fans for hot air heating systems also require outlets.

The boiler room should be particularly well lighted and a pendant from the ceiling as shown in the illustration over the boiler is a most convenient arrangement.



CLOSED PORCHES HANDY

Glazed for winter protection the enclosed porch makes your home more comfortable.

There were 453,909 more men than women in the United States in 1940.

OLD FLOORS

May Be Modernized Too

A floor that has been varnished and which is worn in spots where travel is constant should have the varnish removed by the use of a varnish remover which is painted on to the floor and, after the varnish is dissolved, scraped off. After this has dried for a day, the floor should be re-finished by sanding it with a sanding machine which in many communities may be rented from a local dealer.

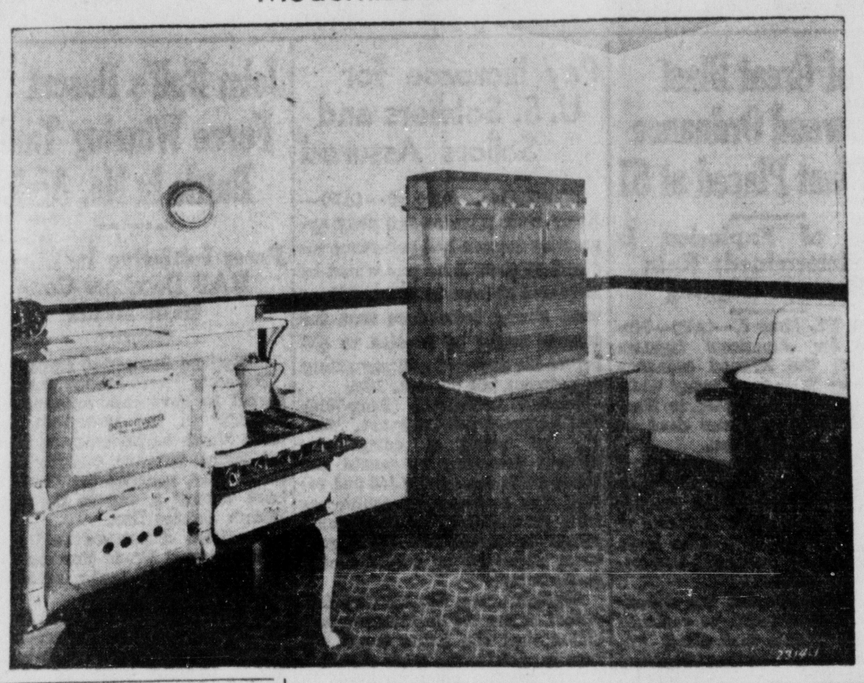
Before sanding the floor, it would be advisable to fill any large cracks between the boards with wood of the same material as the floor or in small cracks by using plastic wood. Upon the floor being sanded, the floors may then be finished either in a light shade or a dark shade as desired. If the floors are to be finished light or natural, all that will be required is to fill the floor with a paste filler, give it one coat of good shellac, and either wax or varnish as required. If the floor is to be stained, then the color selected should be brushed in to the floor after the filling has been done and then shellacked and the floor waxed. This will give a very fine finish, like new, to old floors.

SANDED WALLS

If you have a sand finished wall and wish to paper over this wall, it will be necessary to first smooth the surface which can be quickly accomplished by using a coat of textured paint, trowled smooth and then sandpapered.

Lachine, near Montreal, Quebec, was named by French explorers who believed rapids there blocked a northwest water passage to China.

Modernize the Kitchen



COLOR LOWERS CEILING HEIGHT

Ceiling Should Be Darker Than Walls

In modernizing some of the older types of houses the problem of too high a ceiling is frequently encountered and the question arises as to the best way to treat the decoration of the room.

The usual decorative plan of making the ceiling lighter than the walls may at times be disregarded.

The reason is simple. Where a light ceiling occurs in a high room the color of the ceiling can actually seem to fade farther into the distance and the heigh seems greater.

To correct this condition decorate the ceiling with a darker shade than the walls, and this treatment will have the effect of bringing the ceiling down closer to the rest of the room and to the proportions you desire.

Also, the ceiling color, darker than the sides, can be brought down on the walls for a short distance.

Bear in mind that when a darker color than is found in the side walls is brought into use for the ceiling the general balance should be kept by the use of dark carpeting or dark finish on the floors.

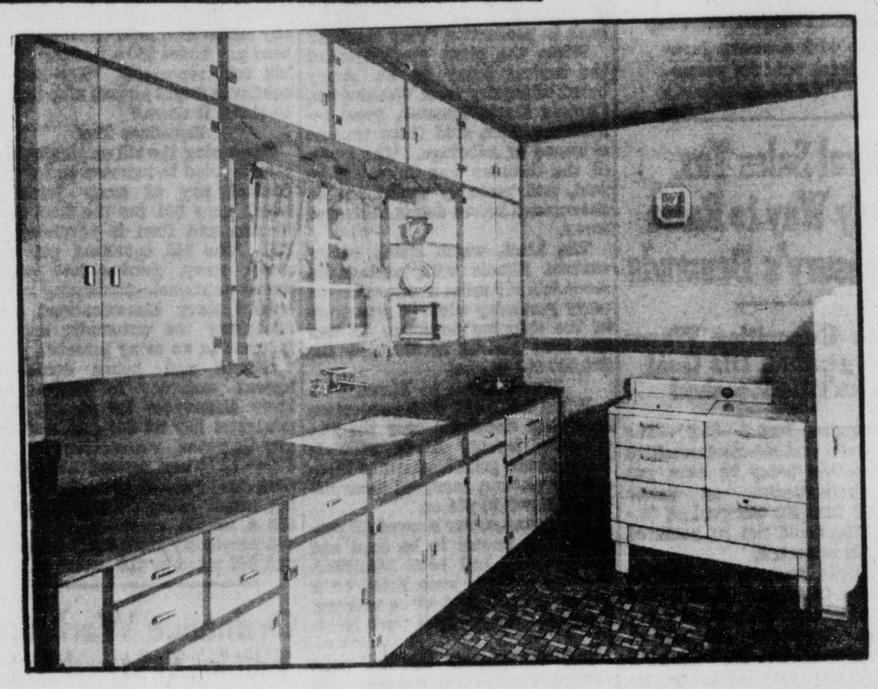
COAT OF PAINT RENEWS SHADES

To renew window shades, lay them on a flat surface and paint with flat wall paint.

In many cases, while the exterior sides of the shades should match, it is desirable to change the interior colors to harmonize with the decorative schemes in various rooms.

Before painting the shades, figure out appropriate color schemes for the entire house.

Some types of shades can be washed and renewed in this way. Check to see if your shades are washable.



MAPLE AND PINE FLOORS

Maple and pine floors are close grained woods and do not require a paste filler when finishing. To get a good job the first requirement is to be sure that the floor is absolutely clean and free from all stains. If the floors are to be stained use an oil stain of the color desired and then when dry wax or varnish as desired.

ADVANCES MADE IN HEAT UNITS

The home-owner who installs radiator heating at this time will get the advantage of the numerous improvements that have been made recently in boilers, radiators, air valves, indirect heaters, and nearly all equipment necessary for a compite radiator heating plant.

HOUSE DESIGN SETS VALUE

Colonial Type Best for Permanency and Taste

The design of the house is the most important element in determining its permanent value. A choice must be made between the latest fad or fancy, and the adherence to a recognized style, or an adaptation to some style.

The colonial types, for example afford all the potentialities of a national style and at the same time give place to harmonious blending in with modern ideas. Permanence and good taste are usually synonymous. Good taste is always the survivor of the passing fad.

A home, to be permanent, must have home-like qualities.

One thing which is important is to properly orient the house and its different rooms to the points of the compass. This orientation varies according to the geographical location. In warmer climates the kitchen might well be on the west, where it will be cool in the morning at the time the home maker is doing the work of the day which is done in that room. Then when she is ready to rest in her living room or front sunporch, it is one the east where it is cool and comfortable.

In the northern climate, where there are more weeks in the year when the warm sun is welcome then when it is not wanted, it is very nice to have the sun in the dining room, breakfast nook or kitchen in the early morning, these rooms being exposed to the east or south exposure, and the living rooms on the west where the afternoon sun will brighten up the room for hours of leisure or sitting-down tasks.

HUMIDITY FIXED BY NEW DEVICE

Humidifiers are now available which can be attached to any steam or hot water heating apparatus and provide just the right amount of humidity—automatically controlled—no matter what the temperature may be out of doors.

Modern mechanical equipment for the home insures genuine living comfort, cleanliness and lower fuel bills.

COLORED WALKS NOW IN VOGUE

Colored concrete flagstones are being used more and more for new driveways, with many striking yet harmonious affects.

A new front walk and terrace of colored concrete adds hundreds of dollars to the value of your home.

INSPECT HARDWARE

Inspect the locks, bolts and window fastenings of the home. If they have started to rust, sandpaper and refinish now before they are weakened to the point of usefulness. If they are broken, replace them.

From 1925 to 1940, approximately three-fifths of all new and used automobile sales, one-half of all sales of household appliances and two-fifths of furniture sales were made on an installment basis.

The United States Army Medical Library is the largest working medical library in the world.

MODERN BATH IMPROVES HOME

Think what a modernized bath, or perhaps an extra bath, would mean in your own home. With the modern economical materials on the market you can do the work for comparatively little if you plan it carefully.

The modern trend is to have the bathroom bright and colorful, not only as to the walls and floors, but the bathroom equipment itself. Much of the new equipment is offered in various pastel shades.

The modern trend is also toward making the bathroom large enough to serve as a dressing room, with vanity dressing table and other accessories for the complete toilet.

Much can be done, even at small cost, to modernize the old bathroom.

Mortality of males is higher than that of females at almost every age.

ARMY LIFE

"All those fond of music step two paces forward," sang out the top sergeant. With visions of a soft job in the regimental band, half a dozen men stepped out.

Growled the T. S.: "All right, now, you six guys get busy and carry that piano up to the top floor of the officers' quarters."

"Do you wish the court to understand that you refuse to renew your dog license?" "Yes, your honor, but—" "We want no 'buts.' The license has expired." "Yes, and so has the dog."

Ash Chute Is Handy in Home

In homes and on farms where coal or wood-burning kitchen ranges are used, many steps can be saved by installing an ash chute direct from the range to a can in the basement so that the ashes can be dropped directly into an ash can located in a specially constructed concrete or masonry chamber built to prevent fire hazards.

An ash chute eliminates frequent removals of ashes at inconvenient times from the range, and the necessity of cleaning up the dust and ashes which usually fall on the floor when removing them from the range. The ash chute should be made of non-combustible material insulated from any combustible portions of the house.

WHAT IS THE APPEARANCE OF YOUR PORCH?

Repairs to porch floors, columns, railings, steps and supports will minimize the danger of personal injury and add to the exterior appearance. If the porch is out-of-date, it may be altered, converted into a room or removed. If inadequate, it may be enlarged.

Workshop in Basement or Attic Handy

Thousands of American home owners choose carpentry or woodworking as their hobby. The average house includes ample space either in the basement, cellar, or attic, where a home workroom may be constructed. In such a place the amateur carpenter may find much diversion and utilize his time to pleasant purposes.

A stout work bench with vise, lathe and racks for tools is generally desirable. Under the bench, shelves and cabinets may be built to contain materials and equipment.

A workshop such as this is also beneficial to the home as many useful articles can be built.

WISCONSIN GUESTS

Mrs. Percy Strub and sons Gary Lu Verne and Lynn Edson of Waupun, Wis. arrived yesterday for a visit with Mrs. Viola Strub. Mr. Strub, worshipful master of the Waupun Masonic lodge, is attending the Grand lodge of Masonic orders in Milwaukee, and will join his family here next week.

HISTORIC WALGREEN ESTATE HOLDS MUCH OF INTEREST FOR SUNDAY GARDEN-WALKERS

Historic "Hazelwood," the estate of Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, will be a mecca for visitors on the Girl Scout Garden Walk tomorrow afternoon, as it has been for garden lovers from all parts of the country for many years.

More than 105 years ago, "Hazelwood" was established by Alexander Charters, a native of Belfast, Ireland, who settled first in New York City, and became a linen merchant. In 1838, Charters came to 'Hazelwood," named, it is thought, in honor of Hazelwood Park in Belfast.

By boat from New York to New Orleans and up the Mississippi and Rock rivers to what was then Dixon's Ferry, he brought servants and household goods, and became one of the most famous hosts that Illinois has ever known. It was while visiting at "Hazelwood" that William Cullen Bryant wrote "A Forest Hymn" and "To a Waterfowl." Margaret Fuller, visiting there in 1843, wrote her prairie poems. The late Edwin Markham did some work on his books at "Hazelwood" as the guest of the late Mr. Walgreen, and Mrs. Walgreen.

Mrs. Walgreen is credited with developing the nationally-famous garden, which will be viewed by garden-walkers tomorrow. To promote continuous blooming, she replaces Dutch iris with red fuschsias, which are heavy with blossoms before the iris fades. She plants forget-me-nots to replace tulips, 'and before the forget-me-nots finish blooming, asters are sending forth buds.

"Planting Memories"

Members of the Walgreen family practice a tender form of gardening by "planting memories." One member presents another with a beautiful blue spruce; still another gives a copper beech for a birthday gift or at Christmas, until much of the garden has become green living memories.

To the left as one approaches the greensward, is a superb lily pond, fringed with weeping willows and colorful with many varieties of water lilies, now in full bloom. The Alaskan Yakatak Indian canoe that tosses lightly beneath the willows was a gift to Mrs. Walgreen from her brother, and is said to be one of very few of its kind in this country.

Rare varieties of lily, foxglove, lupin, and innumerable flowers succeed each other in progressive splashes of color. Unusual specimens of giant red and yellow violets, the exquisite Halli lily (often called "Mystery lily" because of its beautiful rose-pink flowers that bloom after all leaves are dead) tall shoots of "old Honesty", money plant (also known as "Silver Dollars,"), and rare grape hyacinth attract the eye as one traverses the garden paths. A particularly enchanting spot is the rustic bridge across a deep ravine to Primrose Path, where a medley of color leads into the woods.

Rare Trees

"Hazelwood" is as famous for its growths of rare trees as for its flower gardens. Tomorrow's visits will be interested in the fine specimens of Devil's Walking Stick that grow to considerable height in perpendicular line, the trunks bristling with thorns. The aromatic sumac is yellow with blossom in early spring, heavy with green leaves in summer, and scarlet with berries in autumn.

A Sweadler maple was planted at "Hazelwood" in 1933 to commemorate the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth, Mrs. Walgreen was fortunate in securing a large tree for transplanting, and she is the proud possessor of a Certificate of Commemoration in reward for her efforts.

A giant tamarack larch, imported from Europe, was planted by "Governor" Charters more than a century ago and graces the lawn with its slender, drooping beauty. Huge hawthornes, honey locusts, groves of hemlocks and towering century-old oaks are all a part of "Hazelwood."

The houses, too, comprise a vital part of the historic estate. To the left, as one enters the garden proper, is the old barn, interestingly reconstructed and furnished. The first floor, which will be open to garden-walkers, is connected by underground tunnel with an old, vine-clab cabin, where Abraham Lincoln was entertained by the first master of Hazelwood. Alexander Charters lived in the cabin until completion of his homestead, destroyed by fire, several years ago.

Picture Window

High on the river bluff beyond stands the manor house. From a large picture window, one gains what is said to be the most magnificent view in the state of Illinois.

A popular saying of early Dixon was: "All roads lead to 'Hazelwood' ", and that is practically true today. Garden-walkers tomorrow may cross to the north side of the Rock river turn right on any street south of the railroad tracks to Brinton avenue, and follow the avenue to the gates of "Hazelwood."

And as a loyal ancient once said of his beloved native Naples, anyone having visited "Hazelwood" might say today: "See Hazelwood and die," for he may never look upon successive views of more surpassing beauty.

TO WEST COAST

Mrs. Harry D. Miller will be leaving tomorrow evening for Pasadena, Calif. to join her husband, who has been employed by the Northrup Aircraft company at Hawthorne for several weeks. Accompanying her west will be the W. H. McMasters' young granddaughters, Mary Kay and Anne Pottinger, who will join their parents, Major and Mrs. W. K. Pottinger, at Santo Rancho Se, near San Diego. Major Pottinger is stationed at Camp Elliott, near San Diego.

Former Ashton Girl Is Bride

Miss Lucile Hart and Mrs. J. M. Bergeson of Ashton were in Rockford, Wednesday evening, attending the wedding of Miss Dene Weter, daughter of the W. D. Weters of Rockford, formerly of Ashton, to Sgt. Walter G. Lehr, Jr. The vows were read at the Court Street Methodist church.

Lace panels trimmed the bride's gown of white marquisette, designed with a sweetheart neckline, a fitted bodice, and a long train. Her three-quarter length veil fell from a tiara of orange blossoms, and she carried gardenias and stephanotis.

As maid of honor for her former roommate and sorority sister at Knox college in Galesburg, Miss Jane Gegher of Chicago was dressed in pink marquisette, and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers. The Misses Barbara and Marjorie Bigler of Chicago, nieces of the bride, wore blue flowered marquisette, as bridesmaids.

Hale Denny of Union served Sergeant Lehr as best man. Ushers were Sgts. Ross W. Fairchild and Charles Forsyth, and Corp. William W. Wadel of Camp Grant.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will be at home in the Columbia apartments, 120 South Church street.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lehr of San Antonio, Texas, was graduated from Washington and Lee university at Lexington, Va., where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is now stationed in the medical replacement center at Camp Grant.

Skyway Freighter Fleet Considered in Wartime Speed

New York (Wide World) — Weeks of amazing prophecies — and denials—on airplane possibilities to win the war and chance the peacetime world have just been brought into focus.

Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chief, reportedly will set up an air cargo committee to study the prospects for speeding development of giant freight-carrying planes.

Some of the sponsors of such planes claim that:

1. They could rush critical material— from ammunition to knocked-down tanks and planes—to vital war areas, thus supplementing shipping, foiling axis submarine campaigns, and smashing transportation bottlenecks.

2. They would set the pattern for peacetime super-giants of the air which, towing huge cargo gliders, could make the world's remote corners just a few hours away from industrial centers instead of weeks and months when products are moved by ships.

3. The peacetime air giants would replace ocean-going vessels for heavy freight as well as passenger traffic.

Will Cite Feats

As examples of the importance of air transportation in war and peace they call attention to these feats:

American planes are flying military supplies from India to the Chinese, isolated from the outside world when the Japanese cut off the Burma Road. Other planes have carried heavy machinery into inaccessible regions of Alaska, Canada, the Andes mountains and elsewhere.

Aircraft designers point out that factories now can turn out planes to carry a load of 34 tons. 500 miles or loads of 28 tons 2,000 miles and can even produce planes carrying 75 tons 2,000 miles.

If the committee recommendations were favorable, Nelson would be in a position immediately to order creation of the great skyway freighter fleet.

If the recommendations were unfavorable, the dream of gigantic air transports might be unfulfilled for a while but not necessarily destroyed since transports have been getting larger, not smaller.

President Approves Spending of Federal Funds for Hospital

Chicago, June 6—(AP)—Presidential approval has been given a war public works project to provide a $210,000 addition to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Belleville, Ill., it was announced at the regional Federal Works Agency headquarters here.

The FWA office announcement said the hospital, operated by the Sisters of St. Francis, will provide $105,000 toward the project, and will obtain a matching FWA grant. The addition has been described as essential to the health and welfare of war workers in the Belleville area.

Original plans called for razing an existing wing of the hospital and constructing a five-story addition. New plans, however, provide that the wing will be retained for the duration of the emergency and will be supplemented by a 60-bed addition.

A Thought for Today

My righteousness I hold fast, and will not let it go; my heart shall not reproach me so long as I live.—Job 27:6.

But 'twas a maxim he had often tried,
that right was right, and there he would abide.—Crabbe.

Air Transport

Inspired by the enormously effective part which the airplane has played in this war, we are getting a bit over-enthusiastic about post-war probabilities.

Already, in a casual way, we are talking about a time not far distant when family planes will be as common as family flivvers are today.

We take for granted the prophecies that after the war huge aircraft will largely supplant trains on land and ships at sea in the business of transporting both passengers and freight.

Though probably we don't really argue that far, we envision hazily the day, soon after we have pounded the axis out of existence, when we shall fly to the unmourned funerals of the automobile and the railroad and the steamship.

Such a dream could come true, of course. In speed, in carrying capacity, in ease of control and in fundamental safety, the airplane has made unbelievable strides.

Without doubt, after this war airline's passenger, express and freight businesses will be multiplied many fold.

We shall have thousands of huge planes, built as bombers and transports and war freighters, plus the capacity to turn out more thousands every year.

The railroads and steamship lines will face intense competition. Efficient plants, which have been making fighters and trainers, undoubtedly will do their best to sell us family planes in place of automobiles.

But that is only one side of the picture. The men who design and manufacture planes tell us, truly, such developments are mechanically feasible. The men who will have to find the income to pay the expenses want to know about some other phases.

Huge bombers are built to give superspeed, to fly at extreme altitudes, regardless of the cost of construction or operation. Governments at war can't worry unduly about economy. But experts say these big planes will need a whale of a lot of revamping before anybody can use them to haul payloads in a self-supporting business venture. Moreover, there is a question how much freight and how many passengers are in sufficient hurry to pay the premiums to finance air transport.

As for family planes, did you ever stop to think how much more extensive terminal facilities, involving how much greater tax cost, are required for a plane than for an automobile? Do you know how your community could finance such costly improvements, at the same time maintaining streets and highways—for, of course, the plane owner must have a car to travel from home to airport.

None of these problems is insoluble. Some aren't even relatively difficult. The point is that such problems, and dozens more, exist and at best will require time for their solution.

Don't sell the railroads, steamship lines and automobile manufacturers too short right away. Let's keep our shirts on.

Pressure Victims

The standing of congress with the public seems to sink lower almost day by day. From an attitude of tolerance we have shifted to one of disrespect and, of late, contempt.

Individual members of both houses stand out above the general low level. We know, from personal acquaintance, that congressmen represent a fair cross section of the American body politic. Yet as a nation we tend to have light regard for congress as a body.

That is one reason why we re-elect members whose conduct has offended us grievously. Except now and then, voters take the attitude it doesn't matter whom we elect. We have seen so many apparently good men degenerate in congress' craven attitude that, when election time rolls around, we follow the easy course, and let the rascals stay in.

There are many reasons for the sad decline in the repute of our congress. Most immediate of the superficial excuses, perhaps, is its long subserviency to the presidency.

But congress would not have become a rubber stamp for the White House if its members as a group had not already ceased to be statesmen and transformed themselves into $10,000-a-year-messenger boys.

For years now congressmen have walked the slackwire among pressure groups.

Beginning with a presumably sincere desire to further the interests of unfortunate or oppressed groups, congressional blocs have drifted inevitably into becoming servants of the alleged "leaders" of special interests.

But too often these "leaders" are phonies, self-seeking or misguided or both. So the bloc congressmen—which includes most of them—have been misled into working for special interest benefits, antagonistic to the general welfare, which often the special interests do not really seek or want.

Illustrations? Plenty.

Much labor legislation. Workers are willing to sacrifice to the limit to win this war, but timid congress has heeded misrepresentative "labor leaders" and given workers unasked "protection" at the expense of the war output.

Farmers are willing to sacrifice. But a rabbity congress listens to so-called "farm spokesmen" and refuses to treat farmers as loyal, give-until-it-hurts-like-hell Americans.

Industry is ready to sacrifice, and taxpayers, tradesmen and consumers. But congress lingers scandalously far behind this nation's war fervor.

The success of democracy rests on a workable legislature. We might almost as well lose this war as lose congress.

We can save congress if its members will awaken to the fact that by playing the pressure group game they are injuring themselves as much as their country.

MARTHA SHOWS HER COLORS

CHAPTER XXIII

HE was conscious, first, of a buzzing in his ears, and then a light in his face. The light was very near. Its heat sent needles of pain through his closed lids and burned his brain. He tried to raise his hand to shade his eyes but the effort was too much.

He lay still, eyes closed, forcing air into his dry lungs. The heat was a little less and the light a little less intense, but he became conscious that his body was heaving and bouncing as though tied to a burro's back. Slowly the buzzing faded from his ears. Again he tried to raise his hands and found he could not.

His mind seemed to be functioning pretty well. He remembered being sick, and falling. And he could hear: there was a rustle of silk nearby. He could smell, too; an exotic perfume. But move a muscle, even to opening his eyes, he could not.

He lay a long time, listening to the rustle of silk, trying to identify the perfume and connect it with the sound. He attempted to speak, but his tongue gave no response. He gave that up, gave up trying to move, content only with listening. And then he heard a barrage of knuckles on wood.

"Who is eet?" a voice called from his side.

"Pringle, ma'am. We're searching for Mr. Talcott—" The door hinged creaked. There was a feminine scream, and Pringle's "Excuse me, ma'am!" in hasty, embarrassed withdrawal.

Talcott tried to call out, to open his eyes, to move his hands. His mightiest effort succeeded only in raising one indescribably heavy eyelid. A glaucomic flash revealed to him only part of a stateroom; a wardrobe blocked his view. But he did see the back of a woman who was in complete negligee. Her glistening dark hair was a cloud on her shoulders and her dark eyes were hard with anger from the interruption. He was only mildly surprised to recognize Martha Swenson.

The effort was too much; his lid dropped back and he lay, listening to the rustle of silk. The sense of feel was returning; he could feel the warmth of Martha Swenson's nearness—

"This man is strong. He just opened an eye!"

A man's voice. From behind and beyond Talcott. It was low, almost whispered. He heard Martha Swenson respond, "You should not remain here, Carl. It is not safe. I sent the captain away, but that fool doctor will come in soon. And the girl. She will be looking for him."

There was movement but no answer. A new presence. Fingers on Talcott's wrist. "Don't try to play possum," the low voice said. "Open your eyes!"

WITH tremendous effort, Talcott opened them. He was lying in a lower berth; the light that had blinded him was a reading lamp. Its rays glinted on the bald, ugly head of Gerhardt von Stampf.

The baron smiled mockingly. "Surely you had not shared the opinion of the others that I had left the ship!"

Talcott couldn't have answered even if he had desired. No. He hadn't shared that opinion— His body was numb. Only his brain and his eyes were alive.

"That pin," the baron chuckled. "You are very careless my friend. I could just as easily have poisoned you. Can it be that I overrated you? It is no matter. You have caused me a great deal of trouble. I am not one to take loss lightly. I am prepared to bargain with you—"

"Carl! Please go! The others will come back and this time I cannot save you. They will hang you for murder—"

"Silence, fool! I come and go at will. No one can touch me! And you, Lieut. William Talcott—My patience is only so much. That envelope you stole from Halsey. What did you do with it?"

You are a fool yourself, Baron von Stampf, Talcott thought. You know I can't answer and yet you ask me questions. Well, maybe I can speak but I don't dare just now—

As if reading his mind, von Stampf said softly, "You are worried? In an hour you will be your normal self. I have spared you because to save my work I wish to bargain. I offer you your life and that of the blonde girl for the contents of that envelope."

The man was mad. Trading with the life of June Paterson—What tortures had he devised for her if Talcott refused? And how could he assent? He couldn't even speak!

The baron said, "That hurt you, eh? Good! Now, you will do as I direct. You will not return that envelope and its contents to Halsey. You will take it instead direct to the office of Federal Chemical Company and there hand it to Mr. Winters' private secretary. You and she are to be alone when the transaction takes place. There will be no tricks. That is my bargain. You understand?"

A raving maniac. I want to smash your grinning face. I want to see the blood start from your nose as it started from Sebastien and MacDowell—

"Ah! You close your fist! You are very strong. It would be a pity to kill you—" He moved, swiftly, beyond the wardrobe; beyond Bill Talcott's vision. Minutes or perhaps hours passed, and then the sound, as of the scratching of fingernails, came from the bathroom door. Swiftly and unceremoniously Martha Swenson pulled a blanket over Talcott's eyes. When she removed it the bathroom door swung idly and von Stampf was gone.

HE awoke suddenly, surprised that he had been asleep. He heard the sound of angry voices and lifted his head to stare with bleary eyes at a full-blown argument between Martha Swenson and the ship's physician. It didn't occur to him immediately that he was able to move again. The tableau was too interesting.

Miss Swenson was dismissing her erstwhile swain in no uncertain terms. Telling him off for a fool, a sap, a sucker and a lecherous old dope.

Talcott grinned. It was very interesting to see the doctor's stuffiness being beaten out of him like dust out of a carpet. He stopped grinning quite suddenly when the door swung open to admit Captain Pringle, Halsey, Professor Constantine and—June Paterson.

Her eyes were frosty and she showed that she had heard enough of the argument to allow her to form some thoughts of her own. But Bill Talcott had no time for explanations.

"Pringle!" he called hoarsely. "Webber's still on the ship. He was just here—threatened June—"

Martha Swenson turned. Her eyes, cold, furious, warning, blazed at him. Slowly she moved away, backing toward the bureau.

"Webber doped me with something," he continued doggedly. "On a pin in the lining of my sleeve. Not sure yet if I can stand— Watch that woman!"

Professor Constantine was nearest and he moved with remarkable speed for one who was usually so bewildered. Smashed the revolver to the floor, and with eyes averted, smothered the struggles of the insufficiently-clad Miss Swenson.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited).

Washington, June 5—The ardent liberal campaign to banish all so-called isolationists from public life in the midst of war was started by the New Republic magazine for reasons not clear at the time.

The implication was that they were unpatriotic. But an inspection of their voting records in congress since December 7 showed they generally supported every war measure and were not talking much. Actually they were no obstacle to the war effort.

When that reason thus fell down, other publications which took up the campaign, turned to the point that the isolationists should be exterminated because they opposed getting into the war before we got into the war. The liberals hammered that reason for a while, but it left matters just as much in the dark as ever, because Roosevelt opposed getting into the war before we got in.

His speeches and statements show this to have been his announced policy in his re-election. If that is the measure of isolationism, then the president was an isolationist and so were most of the people of the country.

Any real reason for the campaign continued to be unexplained until the New Republic's June 8 issue came out this week. Then it offered a good reason.

It said it was not soaking isolationism because they were isolationists, but because most of them were against the New Deal, quote:

"The enemies of the new deal are the very ones who could keep us from winning the peace. This is an issue which must be fought and won on the domestic front, and it must be won while the war is being waged".

That clarifies the matter. The attack, it now appears, was timed all along for the primaries and the congressional elections, for domestic political reasons — which are fair enough in themselves. But such a clarification certainly requires the liberals to drop that fake mantle of patriotism under which they have been hiding this purely political sword.

The question then is whether the New Republic and associates are going to dictate the peace and future domestic politics after eliminating their political opponents from the discussion during the coming elections.

Mourning about the new tax bill is widespread among those who are making it and who may bring it out in about two weeks. Designed to curb inflation and raise $8,600,000,000, it does neither.

The government economists are clicking their teeth about it because it will make the nation's total federal tax bill about $24,000,000 a year, only about one-fourth of our national income and that income may go to $120,000,000,000 by the time the bill becomes effective. They all say it therefore cannot be a guarantee against inflation.

Morgenthau first asked for a $7,600,000,000 bill and then sent up supplemental requests which would bring it up to $8,600,000,000. As it stands now the bill would raise less than $6,000,000,000.

If a $2,000,000,000 sales tax were added, the revenue raising deficiency would be met, but the administration is inherently opposed even to the phrase "sales tax".

The bill does not touch those taxpayers in the lower third of the income tax brackets where most of the "excess income" is, the income which the administration economists fear will cause inflation.

Lower exemptions will touch this group lightly, but the committee agrees that many in the group are not accustomed to paying income taxes and did not get into the habit when the brackets were dropped last time, so they do not consider the added burden as onerous.

In general the bill gets added revenue from the same sources the government has been tapping more and more in recent years—business and the investing class. The corporation tax (normal plus surtax) is 40 per cent, and the excess profits tax 94 per cent in addition.

While the committee has turned down many specific treasury recommendations, it has in general followed the treasury pattern. This, of course, is a campaign year.

SURGEON FINED $250 FOR SMASHING STOCK OF LIQUOR STORE

Dr. J. Stuart Staley—a prominent surgeon in Marion, Va. recently was fined $250.00 for smashing $762.00 worth of liquor in a saloon. He pleaded guilty and paid the fine. Dr. Staley protested over the opening of another grog shop. Most likely he is one of those persons—and there are many—who have suffered from the deamon whiskey.

JAMES A. KILGOUR

(Telegraph Special Service)

Sterling, June 6—The funeral of James Albee Kilgour, prominent Whiteside county farmer, who passed away at 6:30 o'clock Friday morning at his home on the Hoover road north of Sterling, will be held at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Woods funeral home with the Rev. Fr. K. A. Morford, rector of Grace Episcopal church, officiating.

James Albee Kilgour was born in Sterling, July 18, 1871. He was the last survivor of the six children born to William Mathers and Mary Junkin Kilgour, prominent among the pioneer families of Sterling township, his father coming here with his parents from Cumberland county, Pa., in 1837, and later becoming a leading attorney of the Whiteside county bar, as well as an extensive farmer. His father's name will live in local history for the leading part he took among the Civil war soldiers from this community and his admirable record of patriotism and service, including his enlistment as a private, his election to second lieutenant and his advancement during his four years of service to colonel and brevet brigadier general, despite severe illness and desperate wounds.

Well Known Stock Breeder

For many years Mr. Kilgour was widely known as a breeder of shorthorn cattle, and his love for horses naturally drew him into prominent activities connected with the old Sterling fair association of Woodlawn Springs park and he also helped organize the chautauqua held for a number of years at Mineral Springs. He took an active interest in many of the civic movements of Sterling and until his health interfered with his activities he was prominent in social, club and lodge circles. He was a lifelong member of Grace Episcopal church.

In early life Mr. Kilgour was married to Miss Sophie Chester, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Chester, and the hospitality of their home at Fair Acres, north of Sterling, is remembered by many old friends. His wife passed away many years ago and later he was married to Mrs. Pearl Plough, and they established the present home over which she presided until her death four years ago.

Mr. Kilgour is survived by three nieces, Mrs. Marion Tracy Lake, wife of Stewart N. Lake of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Susan Kilgour Shaw, wife of Robert E. Shaw of Dixon, and Mrs. Janet Kilgour Taylor, wife of Dr. E. E. Taylor of Chicago. He also leaves a first cousin, Miss Jessie Crawford of Sterling, and other relatives here and in Dixon.

Funeral of Drowning Victim to Be Private

A verdict of accidental drowning in Rock river was returned by a jury at the close of the inquest conducted by Coroner Frank E. Nangle of Paw Paw at the Preston funeral home this morning over the body of James McCann, who met untimely death yesterday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock near the Risley gravel pit. Funeral services, which will be private, will be held at the Preston funeral home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in Oakwood.

The victim of the first drowning accident of the season, was born in Dixon, Nov. 23, 1927. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCann; five sisters, Violet, Vivian, Marian, Mildred and Faye; and four brothers, Donald, Richard, Thomas and Gerald.

HEARING ON RATES

Springfield, Ill., June 6—(AP)—The Illinois Commerce Commission announced today that a hearing would be conducted June 16 here on protests of several railroads against an ICC order reducing rates for hauling sand, gravel and crushed stone to the Illiopolis ordnance plants from Ottawa, Joliet, Lehigh, Spring Valley and East St. Louis.

LOUIS LOCHNER Asks: WILL GOERING BE ANOTHER HESS?

(Editor's Note: Louis P. Lochner, back in America after five months' internment in Germany, analyzes for Wide World and The Dixon Evening Telegraph the men closest to Hitler, in this fifth of a daily series.)

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

New York, June 6.—(Wide World)—Will Herman Goering, like Rudolph Hess, some day abandon the Hitler burning ship?

Will he even, perchance, conspire against his master as Ernest Rohm did?

Or will he go down with his master?

This subject is much discussed in whispers among men and women in Germany who still do a little thinking of their own.

When Hitler seized power in 1933, there were three men upon whom he relied more implicitly for loyalty than anbody else. They were Doehm, head of the brown-shirted SA troops, the only nazi to whom Hitler addressed the familiar "Du" of the second person singular in the German language; Hess, his trusted personal secretary and later deputy fuehrer; and Goering, his political right-hand man who is fond of calling himself "Hitler's most faithful Paladin."

Roehm was executed during the purge of June, 1934, for conspiring to depose Hitler and set himself up in his place. Hess flew to England under dramatic circumstances in May, 1941. Goering remains as field marshal, chief of the airforce, president of the reichstag, premier of Prussia, head forester of the reich, and director of the gigantic German four-year-plan for economic self-sufficiency.

The Roehm revolt lies too far back to be remembered by the German people in these fast-moving times. Besides, Roehm was a dissolute character.

The Hess escape had a far more profound repercussion. Here was a man who always was regarded as his master's shadow, a partisan who had no other ambition than that of serving Hitler. He never appears to have had an idea of his own; his job was that of executing his master's will.

Suddenly he fled. Was it as bad as all that with nazism? the masses asked.

Berlin wits soon took hold of the situation and coined the phrases "I'm crazy—I'll take a plane for England."

The regime must have realized that the explanation about Hess' suddenly becoming crazy was not convincing with the masses. So the Goebbels propaganda ministry employed typical nazi methods—an order was issued to the press that all discussion or even mention of the Hess case must cease immediately.

More than that, hospitals and streets named after Hitler's deputy were rechristened. The office of deputy fuehrer was abolished.

Hermann Goering, alone of Hitler's three main props, remains. So does Goebbels, but Hitler has never trusted him as completely as he did the other three; he uses him because he is "gescheit" (clever, brainy). So does Heinrich Himmler, the sinister head of the Gestapo and in fact of the entire German police, but Hitler probably fears him more than he trusts him.

It is well-known that Goering from time to time is in the doghouse, so far as his master is concerned. The two men every now and then have a spat. Now it is the luxury with which Goering loves to surround himself which irks his master. Hitler doesn't mind his boys enriching themselves and going in for high living, only they mustn't put it on too thick.

Goering makes no secret of the fact that he thinks the second man in the reich—meaning himself—is entitled to live off the fat of the land.

The storm blows over and Hitler and Goering are ostentatiously shown shaking hands and fraternizing in the weekly news reels.

They have had repeated spats over conduct of the war. Goering, as a war ace from World War I, knows what his pilots can do and resents commands from all-highest quarters that expect the impossible.

So occasionally Goering quits the front and for weeks turns up at his sumptuous estate in the Schorf Meadow, some 50 miles from Berlin. He is plainly sulking.

Looking sharply at the newsreel pictures, one can detect that there isn't much cordiality in the handshake between Hitler and his reich's marshal. But soon thereafter there chances to be a reichstag meeting in the course of which Goering, as the only speaker besides the fuehrer, slobbers all over with assertions of loyalty to his master. And he lays it on so thick about the supernatural powers of Adolf Hitler that one may well wonder whether it's just satire.

General opinion among those who have watched Goering all these years is that he is by no means wedded to the nazi faith in the bigoted sort of way that Goebbels professes to be, and that Hess truly was—until his defection.

It is also known that relations between Goering and Himmler are strained, and that the reichs marshal is by no means in harmony with all Gestapo practices.

It is also known that his wife, Emmy, intervened for many hapless Jewish artists, and that Goering himself once said, when confronted with the fact that one Jewish Kapellmeister continued to coduct at the state opera, "It is I who determines who is a Jew and who not."

Furthermore, Goering is an officer from imperialist days. He always has remained a monarchist at heart. He never has broken off his connections with the former ruling families of Germany.

On one occasion, to my positive knowledge, an American in Berlin was visited by a man claiming to represent Goering. The question he put was: Would the American administration have the same objections to Goering at the head of the German government that it has Hitler?

Watch Goering, is all that the trained observer of German politics can say to inquiring compatriots.

CHURCH WOMEN ACT

The Presbyterian Woman's Missionary organization, with 1,500,000 membership over the country, asked for a wartime ban on liquor in its recent quadrennial session held in Atlantic City. The resolution adopted by the 500 delegates at the national meeting reads thus:

"Whereas in this time when our country is at war, we are urged to deny ourselves unnecessary indulgence, to maintain physical fitness and to conserve material, we resolve that, in the interest of the conservation of both material and human resources, we desire the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages within the United States of America for the duration of the present national emergency. We further resolve that we will undertake to promote public sentiment toward this proposition by seeking publicity for it in our local and church papers and by making it a topic of conversation".

At the first Assembly of the newly organized Methodist Woman's Division of Christian Service, representing 1,250,000 pledged membership, no other issue was given so much emphasis as was that of beverage alcohol. Ths Assembly meeting in Columbus, Ohio, May 19-22 unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved: (a) That the Assembly of the Woman's Division of Christian Service petition the President of the United States, the Secretaries of the Army and Navy and the Congress, to use their powers to remove alcoholic beverages from within and adjacent to Army camps;

(b) That they be petitioned to take control of the distilled liquors now in storage and convert them into material needed in the national emergency.

(c) That they be further petitioned to convert the factories which have been engaged in the distilling of alcoholic beverages into factories for the manufacture of products needed in the present emergency."

Both groups also adopted a resolution urging that Congress and the President support and enact Senate Bill 860, known as the Sheppard Bill, which would prohibit the sale of intoxicating beverages within or near military bases.

He said an area of 660,000 square yards in the Ehrenfields district northwest of the city, where thousands of industrial workers are housed, had been scourged and flattened.

A close examination of reconnaissance pictures of the district showed nothing but row on row of ruined homes, he said.

Cologne's famed 14th century cathedral overlooking the Rhine near the bridge was said to have shown no signs of direct hits in the reconnaissance pictures, but three areas west of it apparently were devastated. These areas were said to total approximately 521,000 square yards.

Battle of China — Japanese front-line dispatches asserted that Japanese troops had captured an important air base near the ancient walled city of Chuhsien and were heavily attacking 40,000 Chinese defenders on the outskirts of the city itself.

Chuhsien is a key rail point in western Chekiang province, on China's east coast.

Domei dispatches said the Japanese had captured two other towns on the rail line between Chuhsien and Nanchang, 300 miles to the west.

113 planes or just under four per cent of the assault forces.

At daybreak, the RAF swept across the channel again and heavy explosions echoed from the Boulogne area on the German-occupied French "invasion" coast.

Russian Campaign—An uneasy quiet prevailed over the long battlefront as both sides maneuvered for a renewal of the bloody conflict.

Soviet dispatches again reported only minor actions in which several hundred Germans were killed or wounded.

DETAILS OF RAIDS

London, June 6—(AP)—The RAF topped off the week which saw it open the greatest air offensive in history with a third battering night assault upon the German Ruhr last night and by sending what observers called the "biggest sweep of the week" against the occupied coastline in a daylight attack.

The "biggest sweep of the week" meant that probably more than 1,000 fighter and fighter bomber planes were engaged in the day operations.

The official statement that 13 aircraft were missing tended to confirm unofficial estimates that possibly as many as 300 planes participated, considering the usual ratio of losses.

A well-posted source said the RAF had thrown more than 3,000 night bombers against Germany in the week ended with last night's raids. The losses were 113, and were estimated at just under four per cent of the assault forces.

"Only the weather will halt the offensive," it was said.

Targets Unidentified

The Air Ministry reported the night targets were within the Ruhr without identifying the cities attacked. The arsenal city of Essen, hit by 1,000 raiders Monday night and a moderate force 24 hours later, is a major center in that river valley.

A five-point daylight sweep by RAF fighters against nazi bases in Belgium and France late yesterday, which the Air Ministry termed 'one of their biggest simultaneous offensives," set a fast pace for the fresh assault today.

The sound of heavy explosions echoed from the Boulogne area of the nazi-occupied French coast.

German air fields and other targets menacingly close to the English channel—at Ostend, Abbeville, LeHavre, Lannion and Morlaix—were hammered late yesterday by huge aerial battle formations whose blows were timed together to confuse the defense.

The scope was indicated by the fact that more than 100 Spitfires struck the Abbeville area, in the Somme river valley," and this action was dismissed by a communique as a simple 'diversionary sweep."

Red Cross Meeting—
An important meeting of all members of the Red Cross in Lee county will be held at the Loveland Community House at 7:30 o'clock next Tuesday evening, all being urged to attend.

Mrs. J. Frank Young Ill—
According to word received by Dixon friends, Mrs. J. Frank Young has been ill for nearly three months, suffering from a severe attack of influenza and complications. The Youngs, who formerly resided in Dixon, now reside at 610 Lafayette avenue, S. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.

'Cyclist Hit By Auto—
Gunther Kahn was struck by an automobile as he was returning to Dixon from Lowell park late yesterday afternoon, riding his bicycle. He was taken to the Dixon public hospital where upon examination, it was found that he had suffered only minor injuries and he was released and returned to his home this morning.

City Buys Police Car—
The contract for the purchase of a new car for the police department to replace the machine which has been in use for several years by Police Chief Van Bibber, was awarded to George Nettz & Co., lowest bidders. The annual maintenance agreement between the state highway department and the city for maintaining state highways passing through Dixon, was received and filed.

Stolen Car Stripped—
At 6:20 o'clock last evening the police department was notified that a car had been abandoned on the cross road connecting U. S. route 52 and state route 26 one mile south of the city near the Fred Adolph farm. Upon investigating, police officers found that the car belonged to Walter Wolever and had been stolen from the east end Reynolds wire mill late Wednesday night. The wheels had been removed and the battery taken.

To Face Police Court—
A. D. Heintzelman of Franklin Grove was arrested by police yesterday afternoon about 4:45 o'clock following an accident on East River street between Galena and Ottawa avenues. According to the police report, Heintzelman crashed into a truck belonging to the Blue Ribbon Distributing company, causing considerable damage to both the truck and his car. He narrowly missed colliding with the Rockford bus after striking the truck. Heintzelman was to be arraigned in police court later today.

to the house. When passed there, it will face perhaps six weeks of study in the senate.

Thus, it might go to President Roosevelt for signature by Sept. 1, but some members said there might be a repetition of the 1918 situation when congress waited until the turn of a new year before completing its labors.

In any event, much higher taxes for both individuals and corporations seemed assured, primarily because of the government's need for revenue. The ways and means committee has boosted corporation taxes by $2,500,000,000, primarily by raising surtaxes slightly and boosting the excess profits rate from a graduated scale with a 60 per cent top to a flat 94 per cent for all.

The individual normal tax has been raised from 4 to 6 per cent and personal exemptions have been lowered from $1,500 to $1,200 for married persons and from $750 to $500 for single persons.

All of the committee decisions have been tentative.

Sugar Supplies Are Bulging Warehouses

Washington, June 6—(AP) — Sugar supplies are bulging the warehouses in some areas, but don't expect more for your sugar bowl.

Storage space has been almost exhausted in some areas, Office of Price Administration sources said. In the midwest large industrial consumers have been using up their pre-rationing stocks, a prerequisite to getting replenishments.

In the east demand for refined sugar has been much slower than estimated but picked up in the last week. On the west coast ships have been unloading Hawaiian sugar at a rate far higher than anticipated on the outbreak of war in the Pacific.

This might be expected to presage liberalized sugar rations, but officials said emphatically that it doesn't. Total supplies are still not far out of line with their estimates, and a certain amount of stockpiling ih healthy rather than otherwise.

Turning Point

point in the long fight may be reached this fall; and already there are evidences of fundamental changes in the strategic situation which suggest that both the Japanese in the Pacific and the Germans in Europe and Africa have lost much of initiative which they appeared to have had firmly in grasp only a month or two ago.

Possibly the most important of these is that the Germans have been unable to start any general campaign to destroy Russia but so far have been forced into see-saw fighting with a Russian army that gives every appearance of being able to hold its own until a second front can be opened by British and American troops in western Europe.

Meanwhile Germany's spring offensive in Africa appears to have been held and industries in Germany itself are suffering heavily from British bombardment.

What the Japanese themselves may do in an effort to secure their already enormous conquests in East Asia and the western Pacific is a puzzle.

As some authorities see it now, the Japanese problem in broad strategical terms is a defensive one. Flushed with their triumphs in Hongkong, the Philippines, Malaya, the Netherlands Indies and Burma, they are nonetheless beset by actual and potential enemies on all sides.

war. Men on the battle-field are helpless without material.

Thus the worker in the factory and shipyard at home is playing just as important a part in the defense of his country as is the soldier at the front. Failure of the man at home to produce would wreck our war effort just as quickly as could a revolt of the soldiery. So upon the extent of our production depends the length of this war—and a very long conflict will be disastrous even if we "win."

With good reason we have prideful faith in both the worker and the soldier. Hitler declared that America couldn't increase her production in time to save the allies. But we are on the way to perform just that feat. Washington officials in close touch with production say the war might be brought to a turning point this year, although victory couldn't be expected nearly so soon.

America's fighting men now are in all theatres, and Lieut. General Brehon Somervell, U. S. Army supply chief, says "we can fully equip any troops we can send abroad." Our tanks—so vital in modern mechanized warfare—are working for all our allies, from Australia to the smoking sands of the Libyan desert and the lonely steppes of Russia. We surpassed Nazi tank production months ago.

Our warplanes are battling in all zones. They are sustaining Australia in a moment of dire peril; they have materially helped slow Japan; they are fighting for China and for Russia; they are participating in the unparalleled raids against Germany. And under Secretary of War Patterson says the United States will produce more than 50,000 planes this year —the mark for which President Roosevelt called.

One of our great set-backs has been due to the axis sinking of shipping but last month we turned out 58 big ships. Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the U. S. Maritime board, says that by September we will be launching three a day and by January or February four a day.

Thus, taking things on the whole, as we enter our second semester we can go in with heads up.

Season's Longest Game, 16 Innings, to Browns

Only Run of Night Game Came in First Half of Last Frame

Judnich's Triple, Only Extra Base Hit, is Deciding Factor

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sympathetic baseball fans can shed a tear today for Rookie Richard Fowler of the Philadelphia Athletics, who might have been pitching yet if it hadn't been for Walt Judnich of the surging St. Louis Browns.

For 15 innings last night, the 21-year-old Canadian-born right hander blanked the Browns on eight hits. At the same time, however, his mates were finding Johnny Niggeling just as tough. Then George Caster relieved Niggeling after 12 frames, and he proved even tougher.

So the teams moved into the 16th inning in the longest game in the major leagues this season and Judnich opened with a triple against the right field wall, only extra-base hit of the game.

Chet Laabs scored him with an outfield fly. Caster retired three men in order in the last half of the inning to gain the 1-0 decision, and the Athletics dropped back into the American League cellar, passing the Washington Senators on their way.

It took the Senators ten innings to wrest a 3-2 verdict from the Detroit Tigers in another of the three night games on the major league slate.

Newsom Finally Wins

Buck Newsom, winning his second game from his former teammates and his fifth of the year against eight defeats, held the Tigers to six hits but helped them tie the score in the ninth on two walks and one hit.

The Tiger defeat helped the New York Yankees and a full game to their American League lead. The Yanks stopped the second place Cleveland Indians, 6-3, stretching their margin to nine and a half games over both Cleveland and Detroit and notching their 24th victory in 28 games.

The Boston Red Sox protected their first division berth, half a game ahead of the fifth-place Browns, by turning back the Chicago White Sox, 4-2. Lou Finney drove in three of the Boston runs.

Giants Trim Cards

In the National League's only arc light tilt, the New York Giants moved into third place by whipping the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1, on the fuor-hit pitching of Dave Koslo. Mel Ott, Mickey Witek and Johnny Mize led the eight-hit attack on Max Lanier and John Beazley. Mize hit a home run in the sixth, his sixth of the year.

The Cardinal loss boosted the lead of the Brooklyn Dodgers to six and a half games, although Brooklyn split a double bill with the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers ran their winning streak to four games as they downed the Cubs, 6-3, in the opening game, but the Cubs came from behind to tie the score in the eighth inning of the nightcap and push over a tenth inning run to win, 4-3.

Joe Medwick led the Brooklyn attack in the opener, driving in three runs, and Phil Cavarretta duplicated that feat in the second game including both the tying and winning markers.

The Cincinnati Reds pulled the Boston Braves down into a fourth-place tie with them by taking both ends of a doubleheader, 3-2 and 6-1.

At Pittsburgh, the Pirates broke a ten-game losing streak, but they had to come from behind twice to nip the Philadelphia Phils, 6-5.

Re-made Blues Show Heels to American Association Teams

Kansas City Has Taken 21 of 25 Games Played on Home Field

By The Associated Press

The best success story in the American Association can be pinned on Johnny Neun, the Kansas City Blues' new manager, who reorganized the team from top to bottom this spring and now is watching it hit the jackpot.

Neun came in from Newark. He brought several Newark boys with him and began picking up players from here and there. By the time the season started there were few familiar faces on the field.

But it didn't take long for the fans to become acquainted with the new Blues. Kansas City began jockeying for first position from the outset, finally surpassing Milwaukee with such gusto that it's going to take quite a spell to overcome the leeway.

The league leaders turned on the juice against Toledo, taking a doubleheader from the Mud Hens last night to sweep a seven-game series in what was thought to be a record performance against a single team. The Blues now have won nine in a row and have taken 21 of 25 games played at home.

Hits Four Out of Five

Eric Tipton's four hits in five trips featured the Blues' 4-3 opening triumph over the Hens in a scheduled seven-inning game which required 12 for a decision. The second contest was called at the end of the sixth to permit Toledo to catch a train, and the Blues were credited with a 4-2 victory after scoring three runs in the final inning.

Columbus, meanwhile, swept a four-game series from Milwaukee with an 8-7 win which was jammed with 30 base hits. The Brewers collected 17 of them, but left 14 players stranded.

Van Mungo of Minneapolis and Bill Sayles of Louisville displayed one of the best pitching duels of the year, with Mungo ultimately wresting a 4-0 shutout by spacing five hits. He issued only one walk and fanned five batsmen. Sayles held the Millers to four blows, but they made two of them count for three runs in the fifth.

Indians Win Sixth

Indianapolis hung up its sixth straight win and extended St. Paul's losing streak to 10 games by blasting out a 13-2 triumph on a 14-hit attack. The Indians made seven doubles and a triple, cramming four markers into the fourth as well as the sixth.

Today's schedule, probably pitchers and starting times (Central War Time):

Toledo (McKain) at Milwaukee (Naktenis) 2 p. m.

Columbus (Crouch) at Kansas City (Ardizoia) 2 p. m.

Louisville Potter) at St. Paul (Swift) 3 p. m.

Indianapolis (Logan) at Minneapolis (Scheetz) 3 p. m.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Joe Gordon, Yankees—Hit two-for-three in victory over Indians, connecting safely in 21st straight game.

Dave Koslo, Giants—Pitched his team into third place with four-hitter against Cardinals.

Lou Finney, Red Sox—Drove in three of his team's four runs in victory over White Sox.

Johnny Vander Meer and Ray Star, Reds—Pitched double triumph over Braves.

Walt Judnich, Browns—Tripled in 16th inning and scored only run to beat Athletics.

Joe Medwick, Dodgers, and Phil Cavarretta, Cubs — each drove in three runs as teams divided twin bill.

Buck Newsom, Senators — Pitched his team out of cellar with six-hitter against Tigers.

Johnny Barrett, Pirates—Singled with bases loaded to lead game-winning rally against the Phils.

Allowed its opponents 23 hits.
Used nine pitchers.
Lost the game 28 to 8.

Sports Roundup

New York, June 6—First reports trickling in from clubs that staged Red Cross tennis tournaments last week-end indicate that the average take was $100 a club . . . And since 300 or so clubs were on the list, the contribution wouldn't exactly give you hay fever . . . Looks even bigger when you remember that tournament tennis is played mostly by young fellows who have more speed and endurance than dough . . . Officials expect that similar events July 4 and Labor Day week-ends will do even better . . . Regardless of how much the sectional groups take in this week-end on the qualifying rounds, the Hale America golf tourney looks like a financial success already . . . The Ridgemoor Club has pledged itself to buy $7,000 worth of tickets and the other 64 Chicago district clubs are organizing a selling drive . . . Indications are the gate will reach $40,000 or $50,000.

Springfield Hitters Keep Bunch Winning

(By The Associated Press)

It appears the only way Three Eye League members are going to stop Springfield is to steal the team's bats.

Last night the League leaders hooked up five home runs, two by Lucas, to rip through Cedar Rapids, 12-5. A five-run outburst in the opening inning, aided by Kimble's homer with a mate aboard, virtually sewed up the game before it started. Cedar Rapids, however, gathered four runs in the sixth in an attempt to catch up.

Waterloo pasted Decatur, 9-4, although outhit, 13-11. A six-run sixth inhing did the trick.

Evansville and Madison were tied up 4-all when their game was called in the eighth because of the weather. Their second game was postponed.

Tonight's schedule will keep Decatur at Waterloo, Springfield at Cedar Rapids and Evansville at Madison.

Belmont Receipts for Day to Go to Army-Navy Relief

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The Belmont Stakes, which has enriched horse owners by $1,331,540 since its inauguration in 1867, will boost that total by $44,000 today while providing the touchstone that may lure approximately a quarter million dollars into the army and navy relief funds.

Alsab, Mrs. Al Sabath's Preakness winner, and Shut Out, the Kentucky Derby champion from the barn of Mrs. Payne Whitney, are the favorites for the third big crown open only to three-year-olds. Alsab is the top choice, at odds of 3 to 5.

Six others are slated to start but none is figured to keep near the two over the mile and a half test.

Belmont officials expect anywhere from 40,000 to 50,000 spectators for the final day of racing on the spring program at the Long Island plant. If the latter attendance is reached, the betting may approach the $2,176,071 record of last Saturday.

The track's entire income of the day, less only the purses to the horsemen, will go to Army-Navy relief. The gift will range somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000, may go as high as $125,000, and the nearby Jamaica track has promised to duplicate whatever Belmont gives.

Eight of Sixteen Records in Danger in Milwaukee Meet

Milwaukee, June 6—(AP) — Eight of 16 records were in danger in the Central Conference track meet in Marquette University stadium today. Preliminaries were scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. (C. W. T.) with the finals under lights tonight.

Those capable of record breaking performances, on the basis of marks turned in this year, include in the track events Harold Hall, Rice Institute, 440; Earl Mitchel, Indiana, two mile; Bill Cummins, Rice Institute, 120 high hurdles; Harold Stickel Pittsburgh, and Cummins, 220 low hurdles, and Campbel Kane, Indiana, 880.

Records in field events were threatened by Jack Defield, Minnesota, and Bill Williams, Wisconsin, pole vault; Jim Delaney, Notre Dame, and Jim Deal, Rice Institute, shot put; Bob Fitch, Minnesota, discus.

Twenty-nine schools from 10 states were entered. At the annual meeting of the 3-C conference last night Ray Sears, Coach of the Butler (Ind.) University track team, was elected to succeed Ralph H. Young, Michigan State athletic director, as president.

Rock River Isn't on Conservation Department List

Fishermen who have been awaiting the opening of the crappie and bass season in Rock river here, report a most discouraging situation. Huge runs of gars infest the waters and together with carp and other rough fish are reported to have spoiled the spring sport at a season when it should be at its best.

Heavy rains have raised the stage of water and the schools of gar fish now crowd the stream to the edge of the I. N. U. dam here and many of the anglers report some huge gar having been seen and some hooked but not with success. Local anglers attribute this as one of the reasons that the summer issue of the Illinois Conservation magazine does not list Rock river as one of the many first-rate fishing spots in Illinois, and strongly favor the removal of these offensive varieties of fish whic hare known to be detrimental to the types most sought after by fishermen.

Potter Leads A. A. Pitchers With 49 Batters Struck Out

Chicago, June 6—(AP)—George Lacy and and Andy Gilbert of Louisville have moved to the top in the American Association batting race while St. Paul's Phil Weintraub, habitual pacemaker, has skidded from first to 16th.

Weintraub's surprising drop was the main development in statistics computed through Thursday noon and reflected the fate of the whole St. Paul club which has been bounced around considerably in the last week.

The first baseman was hitting a fine .359 a week ago, but his Thursday average showed .314. He had stepped to the plate 23 times in the week and made only two hits.

Lacy moved to the top with a .359, although he only was credited with 103 times at bat. Gilbert, who had been to the plate 155 times, collected 55 hits for a .355. They were followed by Indianapolis' Joe Bestudik and St. Paul's Frank Drews with .345 apiece, and Milwaukee's Ed Stanky witn .342.

Other Leaders

Stanky also led in doubles with 16 and Bestudik in triples, seven. Minneapolis' Hub Walker still led in homers with 11, and John McCarthy of Indianapolis was tops in runs batted in with 39.

Most sacrifice hits, seven, have been made by Toledo's Milt Byrnes, and king of the base stealers was George Myatt of Columbus with 10.

Best fielding team was Toledo with a .977 average, followed by Kansas City with .974 and St. Paul with .971. Top batting team was Milwaukee with .263, followed by Indianapolis with .261 and Minneapolis with .260.

Kansas City's Herb Karpel headed the pitchers with three wins and no losses. Rugger Ardizoia and Frank Shea, also of the Blues; Frank Barrett of Columbus and Ray Campbell of Milwaukee each have won two and lost none.

Karpel pitched 19 innings, allowing only 14 hits, striking out six men and giving 19 bases on balls. Best strikeout record belonged to Louisville's Potter who disposed of 49 men in 69 innings.

Buckeyes Need Win to Clinch Third Place

Madison, Wis., June 6—(AP)—Ohio State held third place in the Big Ten baseball list today and needed another victory over Wisconsin to cinch that spot for the season.

This afternoon's meeting of the tems in the second game of their series was the last in the Big Ten race.

The Buckeyes used 11 hits to fashion a 5-2 victory yesterday.

Flag and Victory, Dixon Recreation Weeks Proclaimed

Mayor Slothower Calls Citizen's Attention to Coming Occasions

Mayor William V. Slothower of Dixon today issued two proclamations, one calling for observance of Flag and Victory Week, beginning tomorrow, and the other establishing the period from June 8 to June 15 as Dixon Recreation Week. The texts of the proclamations:

Flag Week Proclamation

To the Citizens of Dixon, Greetings:

Whereas, our county is engaged in mortal combat with the murderous enemies of democracy who seek to annihilate the freedoms symbolized by the flag of the United States, and the citizens of Dixon, in common with patriotic Americans everywhere, are determined to preserve our American way of life, and to that end are fighting, sacrificing, and laboring in distant lands and here at home, and,

Whereas, the period June 8-14 has been designated as Flag Week by the United States Flag association, during which patriotic exercises will be conducted by loyal Americans throughout the land to emphasize our National Unity and determined effort in the cause of those liberties of which our Flag is the glorious and inspiring symbol,

Now, therefore, as mayor of Dixon, I do proclaim June 8-14 as Flag Week and Victory Week and direct that during this period the flag of the United States be displayed on all municipal buildings. Furthermore, I do urge the people of Dixon to display the Stars aand Stripes at our homes and places of business, and to hold patriotic ceremonies as a public expression of our olve of Country, unity, and allegiance to our National Emblem, the symbol of our civic faith and the beacon of hope to liberty-loving people throughout the world.

In witness whereof I have herreunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Dixon to be affixed this 6th day of June in the year of our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Forty-two.

Recreation Week

Whereas, it is the good fortune of our city to possess several parks and playgrounds, and

Whereas, through capable management and careful expenditure of the taxes collected, by the members of the Board of the Dixon Park District, these parks and playgrounds are maintained and equipped in excellent manner, and

Whereas, capable playground instructors are employed to supervise said parks and playgrounds and that transportation in part is furnished to said play-grounds, and

Whereas, it is most desirous that these facilities be used and enjoyed by the general public and especially the children and young boys and girls, and

Whereas it is to the best interests of the health of our children that safe and sane out-of-door recreation be indulged in.

Therefore, I, William V. Slothower, mayor, proclaim the week of June 8th to 15th, 'Dixon Recreation Week" and urge our citizens to better acquaint themselves with our parks and playgrounds and see that the younger people especially have the opportunity to enjoy these facilities.

Green Dedicates Neuropsychiatric Hospital of State

Chicago, June 6—(AP)—The Illinois- Neuropschychiatric- Institute, described by its sponsors as the most modern institution in the world chiefly devoted to research and teaching in the fields of nervous and mental disorders, was dedicated today by Governor Dwight H. Green.

In dedicating the structure, Green paid tribute to the men who initiated construction of the institute three years ago—the late Gov. Henry Horner; the late Dr. H. Douglas Singer, State Alienist from 1917 to 1940; and the late Willoughby G. Walling, chairman of the board of welfare commissioners from 1928 to 1938. Three bronze plaques dedicated to their memory were unveiled.

The building, situated on the campus of the University of Illinois, has two towers reaching nine floors above the ground. It is under the joint supervision of the University and the state Welfare Department.

Not Merely a Hospital

"This institute", the governor said in his dedicatory address, "is not intended to be merely another state hospital. It is designed to center its efforts upon research, and it will attempt the discovery of the causes of mental diseases and of methods of treating them. It will teach medical students how to detect and treat diseases of the mind before those who are afflicted become charges upon the state, and it will demonstrate modern methods of therapy to those who are now working in the various state hospitals".

In research and teaching the institute will cooperate with Northwestern University, Loyola University, and the University of Chicago.

Green voiced the conviction that the institute would not only make possible the restoration of many of the mentally ill to their normal lives, but would, "by the same token, reduce the tremendous cost of caring for mental patients". In the last analysis, he added, "the return will be in human values".

Jerry Has Jitters Says Officer of British Commandos

London, June 6.—(AP)—Germans fired upon Germans during the British Commando raid early yesterday against Boulogne-le Touquet defenses ,one nazi patrol boat was sunk and another was grounded in flames and smoke columns marked areas of destruction, eyewitnesses said today.

"Jerry has got the jitters," commented a 23-year-old officer of the British special service troops.

Dropped from naval craft into the surf of the channel coast of occupied France where an allied expeditionary force may land one day, the raiders were heavily armed and lightly clad. Many wore only shorts, stockings and soft woolen headgear.

The leader was Major K. S. Trevor, 29, nephew of a retired British barrister, T. W. Trevor, who lives in Charlottesville, Va.

Guards Confused

The Commandos were established on the beach and slashing through barbed wire entanglements before discovery touched off a pattern of fire and cross-fire from confused nazi gun crews, the British said. The raiders' anti-tank and bren guns silenced one outpost that was not confused, a machine gun nest at the edge of the dune.

German pill-boxes exchanged tracer-bullets, it was reported, grey - clad patrols swapped rifle fire sporadically and gunshots still sounded from the region after the Commandos — their work completed within an hour—again stood out to sea.

Naval escort vessels headed by Lieut, Comm. T. N. Cartwright encountered two German patrol boats while the Commandos were ashore and dispatched them swiftly, it was said, sinking one and firing the other from bow to stern. The burning boat was grounded and blazed beacon-like for hours.

Frederic E. Ball, minister.

Sunday school classes will meet at 10 o'clock.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock. The service will center around the thought of "The Fringes of Harmon Influence."

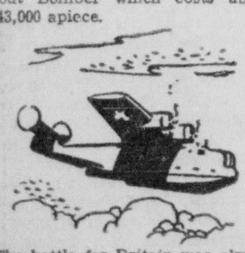
The Youth Fellowship will meet Friday night at 8:00. All young folks of the community are invited for fellowship and worship.

The Women's Society of Christian Service will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Robert Thrasher.

Last Friday a bus load of 28 from the community left for Chicago. The first stop on their tour of Methodist institutions in the Chicago area was at Garrett Biblical Institute. Here they were joined by Mr. Ball and a Chinese student, Miss Marcia Wong. The half hour spent here gave the group a chance to see the campus and buildings and meet the president and many of the faculty members. While in Evanston the group also stopped at the Evanston First Church and here got an idea of a large, modern, well-equipped city church. In Chicago there was a view of the new Wesley hospital and the Chicago Temple. Chinatown was the next place of interest visited, which included a trip to the Chinese city hall and the museum. The Goodwill Industries were toured as well as the Newberry Center and Halsted Street Institutional church. The group then proceeded to Hull House. The last Institute visited was the new Marcy Center which is concerned with the problems and needs of all within its reach and which is building for a high type of Christian citizenship.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The giant four-motored Navy Patrol Bombers are the world's most powerful planes. They cost approximately $700,000 each. The Navy also has a lighter Bomber called the Scout Bomber which costs about $143,000 apiece.



The battle for Britain was almost lost because England had none of these giant four-motored planes with which to fight back. We need thousands of them and they are coming off the assembly lines in our production plants at a high rate of speed today. You can help buy these for your Navy by purchasing War Bonds and Stamps every pay day. Put at least ten percent into Bonds or Stamps and help your county go over its Quota.

Predicts Damndest Fifth Column Will Organize in France

Washington, June 6—(AP)—An authority with the best of information on conditions in France declared Friday that "the damndest fifth column you ever saw" would spring into action against the Germans if a second front were established in France.

Further, he said the bulk of the French fleet was at Toulon in southeastern France, under orders to yield to no one, axis or allied.

The people of both occupied and unoccupied France, this authority declared, would begin immediately to increase sabotage and to snipe at their German oppressors once the United Nations established a foothold in France with a reasonable certainty of keeping it.

The French were described as thoroughly out of sympathy with the men at the top of their government, with the exception of Marshall Henri Petain, the Chief of State.

Laval Will Go

Although the Germans put on pressure to make Pierre Laval head of the government, this source said that if Laval could not deliver what the Germans wanted, and apparently he could not, he would be ousted.

In such event, it was said Laval's successor probably would be Jacques Doriot, former legislator and publisher, and a leader of the popular party. While Laval was described as contending he was not a nazi collaborationist, Doriot was said to have avowed openly his support of the nazi regime.

"The French government", this authority declared, "doesn't intend to turn the fleet over to the Germans. But it didn't intend, either, to put Laval in charge of the government".

If anyone tries to take over the fleets, its orders are to send the warships to the bottom, it was stated.

Sweeter Greeter

Patriotic is the word for Marjorie Evernden, Oak Park, Ill., blond, Chicago's Hotel Week "Greeterette." There is something vaguely unfamiliar, but most attractive, about her portrayal of the war bond Minute Man.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. H. Carl Montanus, pastor

Sunday school, 9. Mr. Louis Meyer, supt. The annual Sunday school picnic is being planned for next week; be sure to be at the church next Sunday to learn all the details.

Morning worship at 9:50. The sermon next Sunday will deal with "A Christian's Attitudes Toward the War," suggesting helpful lines of thought with reference to the present crisis.

Brethren Church Notes

S. L. Cover, pastor

We invite you to meet with us in our Sunday services. Begin with Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. The Bible school subject, "Christ's Last Words Before He Dies." If it isn't possible for you to get to the Bible school, come to church at 10:30. Subject, "Choosing My Lifes Work." We hope you can enjoy this service.

The evening service will begin at 7:30 for both junior choir rehearsal and worship. The subject of the evening sermon is "Facing Life Without God," and vital subjects for discussion.

The Sunday school picnic will be held on the parsonage lawn. There will be plenty of space and a welcome for all. This short distance will save tires. Basket dinner and games for the children. Sure, you can play ball if you wish. If you have enjoyed the Sunday school, enjoy the picnic. Time: Saturday, June 6.

Children's Day services on Sunday, June 14, and the men will have charge of the evening services Sunday evening.

Representative of State Health Dept. Near Ord. Plant

Dr. A. L. Barbakoff of Freeport who has charge of five northwest counties for the state health department, is to be stationed at the Lee County Home near Eldena where the Lee county health department is to be located. At the present time he has three assistants, Mrs. Lucia Roberts and Misses Leah Barskey and Irene Mark, who are assisting in the preliminary organization of the program.

When the organization is completed, the personnel will consist of a nursing supervisor, four registered nurses, a sanitary engineer and two sanitarians. Lee county is one of the first counties in Illinois to adopt the new program as outlined by the state department of public health, Dr. Barbakoff states.

The proposed program will be determined at the close of a county wide survey to be conducted in every township, which will be designed to create a county wide general health program, with all of the aspects of public welfare, school health activities, control of communicable diseases, general sanitary engineering to include trailer camps, public eating places, food establishments and sewage disposal.

Nuttiest School in World Is Located in Hollywood, Cal.

Hollywood (Wide World) —The zaniest schools in the world, perhaps, are the ones operated by big motion picture studios.

Every year they spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for instructors to coach actors and actresses for their screen roles.

But when the film is finished, it's usually just so much temporary education that's soon forgotten. Generally the players are too busy moving from one picture to the next to retain it.

But the professors should be good! There are about 200 of them in the film capital and each draws $100 to $500 a week.

Virginia Gilmore had to learn to milk a cow once for a rather touching scene in "Son of Fury," but the investment proved a complete loss so far as the studio was concerned. It finally decided to eliminate the scene from the finished film.

Tyrone Power once had to learn to fight a bull, so two bull-fighting experts were hired as insctructors. The bull Power fought for closeups in the picture, however, actually was a mechanical dummy, but he had to know all the technique, just the same.

Tierney Learns Dances

When Gene Tierney had to learn several intricate Tahitian dances, a song and some of the language, a French-Tahitian instructor was hired to teach the dance routine. Then an American language coach was employed to teach her the song and how to say "Ia Orna Na Oe". That means "Hello to you"

Power also once was taught to dance the minuet; Claudette Colbert learned to write Spencerian script and Walter Brennan absorbed the rugged art of wrestling alligators.

A staff of three coaches tried to eliminate John Kimbrough's Texan drawl; Don Ameche learned the rumba in three easy lessons; George Brent found out how to do the Hindu rope trick, and Miss Tierney, who never had handled a gun until she was cast to play a woman bandit, took lessons in shooting.

There's even an expert who trains players how to walk like a convict who has been in prison for 20 years—and another who coaches stars in the art of drunk staggering.

So, no matter what the subject may be, Hollywood can be depended upon, even though sometimes it may be a struggle, to produce a "professor" to teach it.
